SIXTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Christ is not abolishing the ten commandments. He is demanding of his followers a more perfect, a more sincere, fulfillment of them. No man serves or honors God by any exterior acts, be they ever so arduous or continuous, unless these acts proceed from an intention and a will to honor and please God. This is the charter, the constitution, of the new law, Christianity. The old law is not abolished but deepened and given a new life.

Avoiding murder is not enough. The true Christian must remove any inclination to murder by building up true, brotherly love for all men in his heart.

We must not only not commit adultery, but must also develop a Christian respect and esteem for purity, the virtue which will preserve us not only from adultery but even from thoughts of adultery, or any other abuse of our sexual gifts given us by God for his sublime purpose.

We must always be truthful. This virtue is not only necessary for man's salvation but is the basis of rational conversation between men in civilized society.

True and loyal service of God begins in our hearts. Keeping the ten commandments is our way of proving to God that we are grateful, obedient and loyal to him. As our love for God is proved by our true love for our neighbor, so the last seven of the commandments impose on us obligations regarding our neighbor. It is only by fulfilling these seven that we can fulfill the first three which govern our relations with God.

This truth is expressed by our Lord in the words: If you are offering your gift at the altar, and remember that your brother has something against you, leave your gift there . . . first be reconciled to your brother and then come and offer your gift.
